New Line of Miller® Arc-Rated Fall Protection Products Meets Stringent ASTM F887-05 Arc-Flash Standards

Franklin, PA – Striving to manufacture the safest and most comfortable fall protection equipment, world leader Miller Fall Protection introduces a new line of Miller® Arc-Rated Fall Protection Products.

Featuring the innovative Miller Revolution™ Harness technology, the specially-designed arc-rated harnesses are available with unique DualTech™ webbing engineered with permanent fire retardant properties. A Kevlar® web loop on the harness back pad allows for a “metal-less” connection when used with a Kevlar® shock-absorbing lanyard with a choke-off loop. Leather insulators under all metal hardware offer additional protection. The modular attachment design also provides connection points for a durable, oil-tanned leather utility bag with multiple compartments.

The new line of arc-rated harnesses is available with webbing options:

- Kevlar®/Nomex® Webbing DualTech – rugged, black Kevlar outside and gray Nomex inside provide superior comfort and durability in harsh working environments.
- Kevlar® Non-Stretch Webbing – strong and durable, rugged, non-stretch webbing provides superior comfort and durability in harsh working environments.

A complete line of arc-rated shock-absorbing lanyards (single- and double-legged models) and cross-arm anchorage straps is also available. Miller fall protection products meet applicable OSHA, ANSI and CSA requirements.
